

The integrity of men is to be measured by their conduct, not by their professions.—Junius.

"The conference agreed to recess and games required to the best of their ability."

